NOTICE TO EMPLOYERS AND THEIR MALE EMPLOYEES

By an order signed on August 15th, 1944, by the undersigned Minister of Labour under authority of National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations:

1. Commencing August 22nd, 1944, every employer is required to check the documents held by each newly engaged male employee, within 7 days of the employee's engagement, to determine if such employee possess documents to show that he is in good standing under National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations (that is, in relation to the Military Call-up);
2. Every employer must report on Schedule 9 to the Registrar for his Mobilization Division, concerning any employee found not to possess documents as referred to;
3. Every employer is required similarly to check the documents held by each male employee newly engaged between May 1st, 1944, and August 22nd, 1944, and to report to the Registrar for his Mobilization Division by August 29th, 1944, on any such employee found not to possess documents as referred to;
4. Any male employee here referred to, is required by the Regulations to present his documents to his employer for purposes of inspection;
5. Penalties are provided for any employer or male employee who fails to comply with these Regulations.

By an earlier order, employers were required to check the documents held by their male employees, and to report by May 1st, 1944, on doubtful cases as well as cases where employees did not possess documents. The procedure for the present continuing check, although being notified to employers in "Notice to Employers and their Male Employees", which is now being mailed, is identical with that set forth in "Employers' Guide", which covered the check made before May 1st, 1944.

Employers are asked to remember that they do not report on men who do possess the necessary documents—only on those who fail to present documents for examination, or where there is doubt that the document presented actually proves good standing.

The employers of Canada co-operated very satisfactorily on the first check, made up to May 1st last. This co-operation was decidedly helpful, and is very much appreciated. Further co-operation is now earnestly requested.

Schedule 9 and details as to documents which prove good standing, are available through the Employment and Selective Service Offices.

Perennial Wheat

Despite the fact that Russian perennial wheat won a place on the CBC coast to coast network, it is not news. Russian plant breeders have, for many years, been investigating the possibilities of perennial wheats produced by crossing wheat with certain species of Agropyron, the genus to which couch grass, crested wheat grass, etc. belong.

Canadian plant breeders, likewise, have produced perennial wheats from the same or similar crosses; but they are not optimistic about the prospect of producing a commercially desirable perennial milling wheat.

In an article such as this, it is impossible to deal adequately with the technical problems involved. Aside from the perennial habit and, perhaps a measure of drought resistance, practically all the characteristics we require in our milling wheats are to be found in hard red spring varieties. The chance of producing a high quality perennial by crossing wheat with Agropyron is so remote that we may dismiss it. Hybrids thus produced belong to a species quite distinct from both parents. Crosses between the new hybrids and our standard varieties are highly sterile and, again, the prospect of success is remote.

Suffice it to say that perennial wheat is probably in commercial production in Russia. It is a fairly safe bet that the quality will not meet the exacting requirements of Canadian and British consumers. The money spent on plant breeding in Canada is mere loose change in comparison with appropriations in Russia. Satisfactory perennial wheat is not an impossibility; but at best it will require plenty of time and money.

Reconstruction In India

INDIA IS PERHAPS the most colorful member of the British Empire and her political history has also been colorful and frequently stormy. Although they are still far from settled in many respects, the people of India have united sufficiently to make a remarkably fine contribution towards the Empire's war effort. With the entry of Japan into the struggle, India became increasingly important as an outpost of the Empire from the military standpoint, and it has been the base for many important moves in that theatre of war. However, like all the people of the Allied nations, those of India are looking forward to the time when peace will be restored and life will again proceed under normal conditions.

Agriculture To Be Stimulated

Like many other countries, India has been laying plans for the post-war years. No doubt the most important of these plans centre around the prospect of self-government, which Britain has when the war is ended. They have, however, been making provision for developments in many lines, and it is especially interesting to us in Canada, to hear of some of their plans for the future in regard to agriculture. It has recently been announced by a special committee of the Imperial Council of Agricultural Research that a program has been worked out through which it is hoped to increase agricultural production in India by fifty per cent. in the first ten years after the war, and to one hundred per cent. in the following five years. To assist in accomplishing this, provision has been made for a capital expenditure of $3,000,000,000, and an additional annual outlay of $60,000,000 for the entire fifteen years.

Standards Of Living Rise

Various means are being worked out to effect this enormous increase in production. They include bringing more land under cultivation, and increasing the productivity of land now in use. There will also be an extension of India's already great irrigation scheme, and other improvements in the supply and conservation of water. These developments will not only result in greater efficiency in farming operations, but will serve in a more important respect, that of providing enough of the right kind of food for every citizen, and of generally improving the standard of living, which in many cases has been at a very low level. This is one part of Britain's master plan for helping native populations throughout the Empire to improve their economic and social status.

SMILE AWHILE

"You seem very quiet tonight, Roland," said the pretty girl, "Are—are you sure you love me?"
"Love you?" Roland exclaimed. "Good heavens, Rhoda, when we were saying good-bye at the gate last night, your dog bit a piece out of my leg, and I didn't even notice it till I got home!"

"Did you know I had a little money when you married me?"
"No, I thought you had a lot."

"Is this village lighted by electricity?"
"Only when there's a thunderstorm."

Jake—I just saw a girl with a glass eye.
Mike—How did you know? Did she tell you?

Jake—No, stupid, it came out in the conversation.

"Does your husband worry over the increasing cost of living and the mounting grocery bills?"
"No," he says there's no sense in both him and the grocer worrying over the same bills."

"Now, then, young man," demanded her father irritably, when he called for the tenth time, "what do you want with my daughter?"
"Wi—with her, sir? Well, you know best what you can afford."

Blake: "Don't you think it a good idea to rate all cars according to their horsepower?"
Drake: "Not as good as rating all drivers according to their horse sense."

The discouraged owner of a small coffee shop in Ohio gave up the ghost and placed a sign on the door: "No coffee, no sugar, no help, no oil, no heat, no profit. If you want a square meal, join the army."

Stranger: "Did you see a pedestrian pass here?"
Local: "No, I've been here all afternoon and not a thing has passed me except one man, and he was on foot."

"I'm sorry, old man, but I make it a rule never to lend money. It ruins friendship."

"But why let that bother you? We never were what you might call wonderfully good friends, were we?"

Auntie: "How did Jimmy get on in his history exam?"
Mother: "Not very well, but it wasn't his fault. They asked him things that happened before the poor boy was born."

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q.—Is it necessary to register with the Wartime Prices and Trade Board to sell a small quantity of honey?
A.—If you produce less than 4,000 pounds of honey you must register with your local ration board; if you produce over 4,000 pounds you must register with the nearest branch of the Ration Administration.

Q.—I am planning on purchasing a fur coat this fall and would like to know if the prices are controlled by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board?

A.—The prices of fur coats are not controlled by the Board. The purchaser is protected by a Board order which makes it necessary for furriers to attach a tag on each garment showing the correct name of the fur as well as the tag name.

Q.—Am I entitled to canning sugar coupons for my new baby?

A.—Yes, when you make application for your baby's ration book, you will receive "F" coupons to cover the purchase of canning sugar.

Q.—Is comb honey rationed?

A.—Comb honey in standard wooden sections, 4½ inches by 4½ inches or 4 inches by 8 inches, has been removed from the list of rationed commodities. Cut comb honey and extracted honey remain on the ration showing the correct name of the fur as well as the tag name.

Q.—I live alone and do not use very much milk and would like to know how I can purchase canned milk. I am in a restricted area and do not know how I can obtain the necessary coupons.

A.—If you live in an area where evaporated milk is sold only by coupon, and you require special Evaporated milk coupons it will be necessary for you to have a doctor's certificate. However sweetened condensed milk is not rationed and you may buy it without coupons.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' News" or the Blue Book (the book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices) mentioning the name of this paper to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

Thunder Bay Area

Seems To Have Had Plenty Of Rain This Year

Jupiter Pluvius seems to have developed an unusual partiality for the Thunder Bay area. As described in a recent news article in this paper the summer of 1944 as far as this district is concerned has an unparalleled rainfall record.

Many citizens have not used a garden hose since last year. Just when they think they will have to give the lawn and the garden a sprinkling the skies darken and the mutterings of distant thunder are heard. As a rule when the rain does come it is in volume and everything is drenched thoroughly.—Port William Times-Journal.

Future Safeguards

Occupation Of Enemy Countries Will Be Found Necessary

One of the most reassuring statements yet to be made by any Allied leader has come from President Roosevelt. It is to the effect that unconditional surrender by Germany and Japan will also involve the occupation of these countries. There may be right now a near approach to the occupation of Germany.

Ever since 1918, there has been a realization among many of the most competent observers that Berlin should have been occupied in that year and also other parts of Germany. Failure to do so unquestionably encouraged the German spirit of revenge and gave them impetus for this present struggle, now nearly five years in duration. It can't happen again 29 years hence.

As for Japan, the American leaders must know whereof they speak. Two years ago Tokyo looked a long way off. But it is not so remote at the present time. The Japanese government may well sue for peace after Germany is secured, but the terms of peace will be occupation by Allied forces. And they will be largely American, as a matter of course.

The declaration by President Roosevelt should stop the American appeasers. It is a matter of safeguarding future generations, an antidote against the vicious doctrine which Germans invented after the last war, that German armies were never defeated. A new version of that doctrine may be expected this time, something along the line that with the whole world arrayed against the Reich, Germany could not win. There will be the implication of a next time, when conditions won't be the same. That is the sort of thing which will have to be scotched.

The Russians have the right idea, they have paid enormous premiums and will now demand the insurance policies in terms of Draconian peace that must be a next time. And by and large the Russians will be aided and abetted by the British people in remembrance of the robot bombing, the vengeful killing of innocents in England, a task in which the Nazi criminals engaged themselves to this moment, when they know the war is lost. Nor will the United States be soft if Roosevelt has a renewed mandate.—St. Catharines Standard.

A Special Technique

Developed For Keeping Mortality Low In Shipments Of Animals

A special technique has been developed for shipping animals, wild and domestic, assuring proper food, ventilation and other demands, and the mortality in transit is surprisingly low. In a single week recently the Railway Express Agency in the United States handled 211 live animals, including 66 birds, 75 dogs, countless baby chicks and grown chickens, ducks, rabbits, pigeons and aquarium fish in tank containers, a turtle, a hog, a crow, a horse and a snake.

FRANCE—

Dancing their way into the hearts of the Dominion's fighting men in France are five members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, hailed as the "Sweethearts of Normandy." Veteran members of the first unit of the Canadian Army Show which landed in England last January, the C.W.A.C.s who are now taking part in the "Invasion Review" are Sergeant Lynda Tuero of Toronto, whose husband Gunner Victor Tuero is a pianist for the party; Private Virginia Stansell of Windsor, Ont.; Privates Muriel Stuart, Vera Cartwright and Enid Powell of Toronto. Sergeant Tuero, star, and chaperone of the troupe, is a former member of the well-known dancing team of Marquith and Lynda. The All-Army show is being presented twice a day to Canadian invasion troops.

Scattered over the Western Hemisphere are five members of the MacDonald family of Jamaica, British West Indies, all looking forward to a reunion after the war. Kathleen is a Corporal with the Canadian Women's Army Corps, now non-commissioned officer in charge of a canteen in Montreal. Her three brothers are all doing war work, one with the Imperial Army in Jamaica, one in Washington, and one in Michigan. Fifth member of the MacDonald family is a younger sister, still in school. Kathleen is interested in problems of food production and distribution and hopes the MacDonald quintet will find work with the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration after the war.

A new championship was added to the sports honours of the Canadian Women's Army Corps Overseas when an all-star softball team defeated the U.S. W.A.C., 54-4, in a recent game in London. Several hundred United Nations service and civilian spectators saw the C.W.A.C. victory. The Canadian Army girls have also defeated teams of the R.C.A.F. (W.D.) and W.R.C.N.S.

SISTERS—

Serving Overseas with the Canadian Women's Army Corps are the Winstanley sisters, formerly of Kirkland Lake, Ont. Corporal Iris and Lance-Corporal Sylvia Winstanley enlisted in November, 1943 and today share a room in their London barracks. Corporal Iris is chief clerk to Lieut.-Colonel Alice Sorby of Winnipeg, senior C.W.A.C. officer overseas and Lance-Corporal Sylvia is doing technical work in the staff duties section of Canadian Military Headquarters. Corporal Punishment

Canadian Spanks 13-Year-Old Nazi For Spitting In Face

The story of how a member of the Canadian Provost Corps spanked a 13-year-old German prisoner-of-war on a French roadside after the prisoner spat in his face was related in a letter received in Toronto by Mrs. Ross Pierce from her husband who is a lieutenant in a tank reinforcement group in France. Mrs. Pierce revealed contents of the letter.

He recently passed a group of 60 to 70 dejected-looking German prisoners of war guarded by one provost. Off to one side was a lone prisoner, also accompanied by one provost.

"He was a mere kid," Lieut. Pierce wrote, "a real 'Hitler youth' in uniform. He was anything but dejected and spat in the provost's face."

The letter then related how the provost picked the youngster up and spanked him. "Yes, on the bottom," the other Germans roared with laughter, Lieut. Pierce wrote, and he added that he never had seen a better illustration of applied psychology. He said he found out later that the prisoner was only 13 years old.

Tuberculosis in Wartime

Rapid Method Is Now Used For Examining The Lungs

The most spectacular development in wartime tuberculosis work, Mass Miniature Radiography, is a method of examining the heart and lungs which has been made possible by the modern camera using a high angle lens. It works as follows: The X-ray tube sends rays through the patients chest and they form an image on the sensitive X-ray screen. The special camera with the large aperture takes a photograph of this chest image on a piece of celluloid film about one inch square. These square are on a continuous strip so arranged that hundreds of pictures can be taken in one hour. This continuous strip of film is then developed, and each picture, containing the chest image and serial number of one individual case, is magnified on a screen so that it can be examined by the radiologist. Mass radiography, of course, is much cheaper than taking hundreds of full-sized films, and these miniature pictures give a general indication of whether the chest is normal or not, and whether a large film is desirable for more adequate inspection.

Mass radiography is not a method of final diagnosis, and must not be treated as such. But it enables the population of a school, a factory, or even a whole area to be examined quickly and cheaply. It is largely used throughout the fighting services. A number of specially designed X-ray units are being manufactured, and in use throughout Britain. Two of the sets are to be sent to Russia by the British Ministry of Health (in replacement of two already sent but unfortunately lost at sea).

A GIANT CROCODILE

The body of a giant crocodile, measuring 13 feet 4 1/2 inches, has been captured in the River Volta, near Aschaurie in the Gold Coast. It took 15 men to drag the body to dry land and two men to lift the head. In the crocodile's stomach were found 85 pebbles which, local people say, means the creature was 85 years old.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

PRECIOUS HOMESTEAD

By GEORGE CHERNISH

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

The hot South African sun was beginning to dip behind the craggy mountain peaks. Its waning rays, shining in through the cottage windows, glistened brightly about the cutlery on the neat little table. Caught Linda's hair, too, and were reflected from it like a mass of sparkling jewels.

Linda smiled fondly as she gazed about the little room. Everything was in readiness. In a few moments now Greg would arrive. How sweet it was to recall the happy memories stretching from the day they were married to this very day—their first anniversary!

The rattling of the screen door startled her. She whirled, and saw Greg. A Greg with hollow eyes and drooping shoulders—a grim, despondent Greg.

"Why, Greg, darling!" She ran to him, little devils of fear-clutching at her heart. "Tell me about it, dearest."

He smiled wanly. "Forget it, Lin. I always take the tough breaks too hard."

Linda led him over to a big easy chair and tugged off his heavy work boots. She had an inkling of the trouble. She said softly: "Your job, Greg?"

He nodded. "They kicked about my production." His voice was bitter. "Told me I was too slow."

Linda's vivid blue eyes flashed. "The beasts!" she cried. "They ruin a man's health with their filthy job and then fire him when he can't measure up! But come on, darling," she urged, feigning gaiety. "It's our first anniversary, you know."

As the days slipped by, and Greg's continuous search for work proved fruitless, Linda's assurance dwindled fast. Not a little of her time was given to periods of worry; the rent, a small sum they'd borrowed, the overdue grocery bill. She, too, like Greg, grew gloomy and morose.

One evening as they sat down to a meager meal, their landlord paid them a visit. Linda's heart sank as she saw the stony look in his eyes. He lost no time in explaining the purpose of his call. "It's been two months since your last payment, you know," he told Greg. "Aren't you working yet?"

Linda said: "I'm sorry, Mr. Horton. He's still trying, ever so hard."

J. G. Horton, owner of half the property in the district, seated himself in the easy chair. "I have an offer to make," he said. "You buy this place from me for an even two thousand and I'll give you a job tomorrow. You can pay me as rent."

Greg was cut of his chair in an instant. "You crook!" he yelled. "I've heard of your dirty tricks before! Why, you'd be lucky to get eight hundred for the place!"

"That's enough, you young idiot," J. G. Horton drew himself up sharply. "I'm giving you one week to vacate!" When he had gone, Linda cut loose with a flood of tears that would have put to shame the offerings of a Chinese professional mourner. "Why couldn't you take his offer, Greg?" she cried. "He said we could pay him as rent."

"Never!" Greg retorted. "I'd rather live in a tent than let him rob me." "That's the trouble with you men. You're too fool'sh, too proud. There'll come a day when you'll have to act against your better judgment!"

Greg growled an inaudible reply and left her.

Next morning, a few hours after Greg had started out on his daily rounds, three men appeared at the kitchen door; two were strangers, the other, Fred Horton, was the landlord's son.

"Morning, Mrs. Kennedy," Young Horton tipped his sun helmet. "We're looking for the old Redner Homestead."

The Redner Homestead had been demolished years before by a severe gale, Linda told them. "In fact," she added, "it was situated on this very property."

Young Horton's eyes lighted. Jupiter! He gasped. "Dad owns this place, doesn't he?"

Linda nodded.

"Come on, then," he told his companions. "We'll sample her."

Linda's eyes followed the men as they trudged out into the back field. For perhaps an hour they worked there digging a hole. One of the strangers then marched around it, turning it into a snake-like affair. It dawned on Linda in one sudden, lightning flash. They suspected diamonds on the property!

A few minutes later, the trio returned and asked permission to use her stove. One of the strangers dropped a handful of earth into a small crucible and placed it over the flame, then examined a particle through a microscope. He leaped back with a wild shout of elation.

"Young chap," he said to Horton, "I'm prepared to offer you a fat $50,000 for this property."

"I'm sorry," the youth said. "My father is the owner."

"Yes, yes, of course! Good-day, Mrs. Kennedy, and much obliged to you." Come, Mr. Horton. We must see that fortunate father of yours."

Linda cried bitterly when they had departed. Knowledge of the fortune that might have been theirs but for Greg's stubbornness, kept pounding at her brain.

A weary voice jerked her back to reality. Greg had returned, a folded sheet of paper in his hand.

"I had to do it, Linda!" he exclaimed. "I hate going back on my word. But he had everything ready—promised me a job in the morning—so I just signed, honey."

German Prisoners Aware Of Allied Policy Regarding Unconditional Surrender

Mr. Anthony Eden gave some interesting facts when answering critics in the British House of Commons. He was replying to the contention that the Allied policy of unconditional surrender for Germany stiffens the resistance of German soldiers, tending to make them immune to Allied appeals to surrender.

Mr. Eden told the House that 77% of the prisoners captured since the landings in Normandy have admitted, on interrogation, that they had read Allied pamphlets and listened to Allied radio messages. He also said that 40% of the prisoners were carrying Allied leaflets in their pockets when captured. Many of them had read the leaflets and regarded them as something in the nature of a passport for the moment of surrender.

Visitor From Yukon Of Development Up North

Whitehorse, Yukon, is expected to have a population of 3,500 when normal times are resumed after the war, Horace E. Moore, president of the Whitehorse Star, stated in Whitehorse, where he attended the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association convention.

At present nearly 30,000 people live in Whitehorse, he said, mostly American army personnel. Under the Canol project 3,500 gallons of oil flow daily through the pipe-line to the refinery in Whitehorse. While the number of Canadians employed at this time are few, they are being gradually increased, he said.

Mr. Moore reported that the Dominion government has reserved 800 acres for an experimental farm in the Klondike district, near the White River area.

"We've lived out of cans a long time, but we're hoping a lot of fresh vegetables will be brought in by highway from the Peace River area now," the publisher said.

The Whitehorse Star, 43-year-old weekly paper, was winner of the Charters cup in 1942, an award for the best weekly in Canada with a circulation up to 500. Mr. Moore has published the paper 12 years.—Winnipeg Free Press.

Looking Ahead

German Government Is Planning To Finance Exiled Nazi Organizations

Large funds are being secretly deposited by the German Government in several neutral countries to finance exiled Nazi organizations after the war.

In some cases these funds are in the form of goods which are being warehouse abroad for sale through neutrals in anticipation of Germany's inability to unload them direct on Allied nations.

By this method, whatever happens to German or other European currencies, the Nazi organizations which will go underground abroad will be self-supporting for years.—London Daily Sketch.

Luxury Air Liner Planned To Make Overnight Trip

Capt. K. J. G. Bartlett of London, England, director of Bristol Airplane Company, said in an interview at Winnipeg that aviation would undoubtedly make strides in the future but advised that undue promises and dreams for air travel were unwarranted. "We are working on a 130-ton luxury job that will make an overnight trip from London to Montreal and London to New York," he said. "We can't say how expensive it will be comparable to the cost of a trip of that distance aboard a luxury liner."

Restrictions Lifted

Some Signs In Britain May Now Be Used Again

Signs on shops and vehicles in Britain giving place names can be used again. Mr. Morrison has lifted a war ban, reports the Trans-Atlantic Daily Mail. When invasion threatened in 1940 display of any sign having the name, situation, direction, or distance of any place was prohibited. If the sign could be read from a highway, train, or low-flying plane. Under the new order the prohibition is limited to signs which can be read from low-flying aircraft. This will allow re-erection of large number of signs on shops and other business premises, although large-scale signs on prominent buildings will still be ruled out. If a sign is in a prominent position so that an uninterrupted view of it can be obtained from a low-flying plane, the lettering has to be not more than six inches high. Exhibition of place names on vehicles is exempted from all restriction.

Feast Of Celebration

Natives In Sudan Rejoice Because Wives Will Cost Less

In the Sudan, in the heart of the "Dark Continent", as the up-to-date world likes to call it, the natives by thousands last month were holding a tribal dance and a feast of celebration. The expulsion of the Axis from North Africa, the surrender of Italy and the other victories of the United Nations had nothing to do with the cause.

What prompted the joyful demonstration, are told by an Exchange Telegraph Agency dispatch, was the official announcement in Khartoum that the prices of brides in that territory had been reduced to 66 for the first wife and 43 for the second.—New York Times.

JOE CITIZEN SAYS ...

When handing out a bit of praise for those who've tried in humble ways
the burden of the fight to share, it seems to me to be but fair that all the world should be told how farm-women took a hold,
and, with their sons and daughters gone,
just set themselves to carry on.
And farm boys and girls have done
a job of work excelled by none.
They've worked before and after school to keep the worlds pantry full

Well, some do more and some do less—we're not all built the same I guess.
But surely we can ALL contrive to buy more bonds in this new drive.
Whatever else we've done—or d.1—
this job must be put over too.
